AWARENESS & ACCOUNTABILITY
JOURNAL

LEAH MARMULLA

The Awareness and Accountability Journal is designed to help you assess where currently are in life, and where you would rather be on your journey to your fullest potential. This Journal works in conjunction with the Diabetes, The Guts of It Program, or any other stage of dietary or life changes. It is a daily reflection, and record to monitor your daily progress. Blood Glucose Reading is prompted, but only for those who have diabetes, and this can be ignored by those who don't have the condition.

The focus of the Journal goes beyond the physical aspects of health/wellbeing and material acquisition; it goes into the real influencing factors of emotional blocks, beliefs and behaviours which sabotage our life and actions. By transforming limiting beliefs, while supporting your physical health, you are giving yourself a wonderful gift helping yourself move towards self-acceptance, love, to be more present in the now and experience deeper relationships with yourself, friends and family.

The overall end result is unpredictable, yet people become clearer than when they start. Since the program covers nutrition, lifestyle, and subconscious limitations/anchors it is truly a mind, body, spirit program to help create a more balanced, well rounded life.

This can be translated into

- ✓ Improved physical health;

- ✓ Increased sense of wellbeing;
- ✓ Clearer vision of self and the future;
- ✓ Decreased stress, more peace and serenity;
- ✓ Increased self-belief to achieve any goal you choose;
- ✓ Deeper personal, friendships and intimate relationships;
- ✓ Deeper insight of the way we see ourselves and project this to the world;
- ✓ A gentle healing of the mind, body and spirit allowing you to live life to the fullest;
- ✓ Who knows what else is possible. It is guided by you and your deepest truth that wishes to be realised.

To use the journal, it is about working through it each day, monitoring the steps made towards change, insight gained as things came up for you. Emotions, thoughts, wisdoms, words etc. then, with this knowledge celebrate your wins and see your life improve. You may like to purchase a separate book to write the more personal things and stories in, using the explorative questions as prompts. Don't panic if you don't get an answer immediately for the explorative questions they are just that asking you to explore your thoughts, beliefs etc around the topic at hand. By reading them, you are planting the thought seed, from which the subconscious can sprout forth the answers and details the conscious mind requires to know

We are not isolated being, just health, just symptoms or just We are a combination of all of this, and much, much more. We are friends, family members; we contribute to our community, work, life. We act from our beliefs, see through our perspective on life, and interpret everything through our filters we have either inherited from our childhood, or taken on with maturity. If you haven't already started to challenge yourself to be the best you can be, truest highest self, then, this journal is designed to begin, or sharpen the process, depending on where you are at this time.

The material has been gleaned over decades of self-awareness progress, and the multitude of books read, seminars and training courses attended. Therapy sessions undertaken to help myself become clearer as to who and what I represented, and to help me clear away as many limited beliefs, actions, and filters that has been keeping me small. I have some way to go still; however, I am not the person I used to be.

I wish you well on your adventure forward from this point, to achieve the desired outcome in self-awareness, choices and ultimately less dis-ease and comfort. Your health may not be reversed, and certainly you will not be a baby again, but certainly a happier and more content person who helps to keep us all young at heart and mind.

How do you know you are ready to make changes, to craft the life you want and were destined for? This type of work, when you are willing to dive into the depths of your own shadow to help this side of yourself come forth and make you whole is often a slow rumble. We have seen and heard things growing up and as life has evolved. You have met people who are different to you, and your family, where you have come from. As a human, you start to notice the differences and start to think 'I want that too' or maybe you had a surprise such as a redundancy, an accident, a relationship breakup, or a close friend or family member get sick or pass on. You might realise you are becoming more and more disgruntled or delusional by what you see, feel and hear in your current life circles. This is good, you are starting to wake up and see things in a different way. Now you have the opportunity to own your life choices and not act them out on auto-pilot or knee jerk reactions because you have been asleep. Acknowledge your progress, even if it has been a painful wake up call, your destiny is calling for you to be true to yourself again, and do the work you have been called to do... Transform heavy and challenging parts of you into light and love, to reveal more of spirit, your Godself or what you call the seed of your being that connects you to all things and people.

If you have been travelling this path for a while, you know what I mean, but if you are only starting this process, you are in for a ride. Sometimes you may beg to get off or it will seem it is going slow as your carriage slowly edges up the mountain to be let loose at full speed down hill again. Be sure you are strapped in and your life to God and Self is as tight as possible. If God doesn't feel right for you, then spirit, Universe, Allah or other Love names works too.

So, Lets begin.....

The Signals that self-discovery has Begun.ⁱ

- A growing discomfort with your familiar environment, which and manifest as feelings that you are no longer satisfied with your occupation or even with your primary relationship.
- The inability to identify why you are saturated with depression or exhaustion.
- A penetrating sensation of loneliness, often accompanied by anxiety that your isolation will never end.
- An absolute awareness that something in your life has changed and that, although you may not be certain what the future holds, you definitely cannot turn back and live as you had before.
- A growing curiosity about your personal needs and a passion to discover what they are and to have them validated by someone who understands what you are experiences. The deep feelings of loneliness that can accompany an awakening require some level of validation, particularly if you are not surrounded by people who understand what you are experiencing.

- The emergence of skills you never knew you possessed, such as the ability to heal or counsel others and a shift in your perception of reality this frequently includes a heightened sensitivity to energetic or vibration patters transmitted by thinking. "I'm too old to start again" you can believe that age has nothing to do with creativity, love or the enjoyment of life.
- People and environments. You shift from relating to the external world through your five senses to awakening your multi-sensory and intuitive abilities. Even though survival intuition, or gut instinct, is always active in everyone, this new sensitivity reflects the emergence of a much deeper intuitive skill. It can develop into the kinds of sensitivity one needs for healing with, say, therapeutic touch or acupuncture. Or it may simply assist you in becoming a more insightful individual.

A shift in your relationship to time. Within tribal power, time is an external linear force that moves you through the stages of your life from youth to elder years. What you accomplish and how rapidly you succeed are calibrated to tribal speed. If the tribe believes it takes a year of treatment and five years of good health to be considered clear of cancer, then that is the timing that a tribal believer will expect. Within individual power, however, time becomes increasingly relative, as you discover the power of your conscious mind. You no longer need to be controlled by group timing; instead, you have the option of pursuing how self-empowerment and the healing go for your internal self can influence the speed or recovery of your physical body, this sense of timing extends to the speed at which you can create something new for yourself. Rather than

- An increase in sensitivities to certain foods, fabrics, environmental toxins and medications such as aspirin and common cold remedies. You may develop allergies to substances that previously did not affect your system, such as wheat, dairy products and caffeine.
- A growing curiosity about areas related to self-development either by choice or necessity.
- An emerging sense of a new identity which can include discovering new ambitions or desiring to live an entirely new lifestyle. You may choose to leave city life for the country, or take a pay cut in exchange for more free time and a chance to pursue other interests.
- Sensations of liberation unlike any you have ever known before, as if you have broken away from invisible chains that had attached you to repetitive patterns of behavior that no longer suit the size of your spirit.

- A need for more contact with nature or more time alone.
- A growing dissatisfaction with institutional religion and a need to seek out spirituality. You may also begin to have spiritual experiences such as deep states of meditation, a call to a new path in life, or even a kundalini awakening.
- Endless boredom and a loss of appetite for everything that once brought you satisfaction and contentment.

First Things first.

Anyone working with me knows that I look at where a person is in their entirety, not only their health. See, our health is a symptom of the deeper picture, what is going on inside our body, its chemistry and emotions. You will learn while going through the Diabetes, Guts of It program; DGIP from now on, the intricate inter-relationship between emotions, biochemistry, nerve, gut, hormones and then the symptoms that can occur. If you want even more information, there will be more courses created over time that details these even more.

So, before we get down to the 'monitoring' of your diabetes, lets first see where you are in your life, as you see it. Throughout this journal, you will be asked questions, prompted and poked. As challenging as it can be, it is invaluable to be honest with yourself. The first step to any change is awareness, so to become aware and open to the first thoughts that come to mind when you ask questions. Be truthful to yourself, with as little judgment or self-criticism as possible, remember, your life experiences have brought you to this point, and you have learnt some very useful lessons along the way, even if it is a lesson of not doing something again. Yes, some have been painful, embarrassing, confronting, but from the mouth of Pooh Bear (a favorite of mine)

The wheel of Life

This tool helps you to gain clarity where you feel you fit in your world. As you can see, it covers the main aspects of one's experiences, from work, relationships, health, and relaxation. To complete:

1. Mark on the scale between 1-10 for each sector; 10 being absolutely spot on wonderful, and 1 being totally blah.
2. Link the marks you made on the scale in each sector by drawing a line going around the wheel.

For example: This is one I filled in a few weeks ago. Yes, it really is mine on that day. I was quite disgruntled with a few things, which I then used to ask the questions I am going to ask you soon, to make changes in my life. Today's wheel would be quite different as I took the time to gain clarity, do some honest questioning and energy, release work to help me remove more limiting beliefs and blocks that showed up at the time.

Back to you. Now that you have identified a few potential gaps in some areas of your life between where you currently see yourself, just ask which sectors are important enough to seriously look at and change. Remember, there is no right or wrong answers here, as if you ask yourself the same question tomorrow, or next week, you might give yourself a different answer based on what is happening at the time.

Awareness is the first step.

This time on the wheel, mark out where you would like each of the segments to be. Let your imagination run, be a kid with this stage, and be honest with yourself. It will give you things to consider, explore and work through, not goals as such, but some really meaty topics to play with.

Now, for some targeted health awareness

The fact you would have received this book from a health site, suggests you are interested in your health, or, you have a health concern and would like to make a difference. Here, I am going to ask you to acknowledge where your health currently is. Again, right down the answers so that you can reflect back and see how far you have traveled since starting your life transition.

- What is/are your current health concern/s _____

- What is your latest pathology results that are outside the normal range? _____

- If weight is a concern, what is it now _____ kg;
- What would you like it to be _____ ?
- What time frame do you want to achieve this? _____
Months/weeks
- How many times a week do you move/exercise? _____
- What is your preferred style of movement/exercise?

- Are you open to doing things differently to create the outcome you desire? Yes/No
- If yes, who do you need support from? What type of professional can help you? (circle the one/s you feel will help)

GP; Specialist; Dietitian; Psychologist;
Exercise Physiologist; Chiropractor; Social Worker; Counselor;
Energy/light worker; Masseur; Accountability partner; Health Coach;
NLP Therapist; Reiki; EFT Therapist; Acupuncture, Physiotherapist
Other _____

Now you have some ideas, it is time to gain clarity as to what you want and what your life could be like when you get there.

Awareness is the first step, but having the end in mind is the second.

Explorative questions:

- What are the things in each of the segments that 'aren't quite right', or 'not working for you'? _____

- What would you like to change? _____

- If you couldn't fail, and your dreams could become a reality, what would your reality look like for you? _____

 - What would your life feel like with these changes? _____

 - What would you hear, see and smell after the changes were made? _____

 - What would be happening in your life and around you when you reached your ideal world? _____

 - What is your ideal day, weekend, holiday, work day?
 Who is there, where are you, what are you hearing, doing seeing?
 What aromas are you smelling, the sounds you are hearing. What are you exploring, thinking about and experiencing?

What is giving you goosebumps, and a thrill of excitement, joy, bliss etc.

- What could be done, said, shared with whom to make the time 1000 x more exhilarating?

Let the ideas be on the page. When a negative, questioning or "no" voice is heard in your head thank the thought, and ask what it's real message, then write this down too, on a separate page. These 'voices' are jewels along the way that when cashed in give you what you want in life, just like gems found in the mud when panning can make you a fortune when cashed in.

If it is helpful, I dare you to take the challenge of looking at yourself in your most honest light. It is a true gift to yourself and extremely self-honoring to allow the gems to come to the surface along life's journey.

By being honest about yourself to yourself, in relation to your desires, wants, food you eat, how you feel, you are in an easier position to make change. Remember the old saying "What you resist persists" (Karl Jung) Why resist any more. You have come this far, so your Deeper Self is searching for change; Its goal is to help you become aware where you are in the now, be accountable to yourself, and then use the tools to explore the emotions and memories that may arise during this time. Exploring creates an opening for change at any level towards the release and healing of past hurts and shutdowns to make way for a wonderful, fulfilling life.

Life is an opportunity, benefit from it.

Life is beauty, admire it.

Life is bliss, taste it.

Life is a dream, realize it.

Life is a challenge, meet it.

Life is a duty, complete it.

Life is a game, play it.

Life is a promise, fulfil it.

Life is sorrow, overcome it.

Life is a song, sing it.

Life is a struggle, accept it.

Life is a tragedy, confront it.

Life is an adventure, dare it.

Life is luck, make it.

Life is too precious, do not destroy it.

Life is life, fight for it.

Mother Teresa

Section 2

The Daily Explore

This section is designed to be an accountability activity. Now that you have awareness of areas you would like to be different, defining the differences in detail is similar to creating the end in mind, as so brilliantly described in Stephen Covey's books. This creates a goal post to work towards, knowing that it will continue to be moved polished and refined as you get closer to it. Often in the beginning, the vision is likely to be hazy and too far away to see, this is ok. Even a 'knowing' of what you want is better than refusing to consider anything beyond the fog. Weekly planning helps to map out the practical steps to achieve the goals for the week. This isn't only about your health goals, but to include aspects of your entire life. We do not live in isolation of ourselves, our needs and desires, even if at times we may need to. Be live in family, communities and most have outside commitments. All of these must be considered to help prepare the way to fit it all in. Then, the daily reflection and recording provides the space and time to see all the good things you have been able to achieve. To reflect and see and feel the progress you are making, especially on the days or weeks when it seems nothing is working. It is, usually on the inside that will be reflected on the outside when things come back in alignment.

The third section is daily action

This section is also divided, into to take you through each day so you can

- See the bigger picture
- daily reflections on what you have eaten,
- the type and amount of exercise you have completed,
- record your BGL readings, if you need to. These can be rotated to develop a snapshot of your body reactions to food; and to
- increase your awareness and make change.

To expedite your awareness, it is invaluable to explore the day's events and feelings. The benefits are you have the opportunity to acknowledge how well you are going,

- Your wins, small and big changes made;

- Gratitude, no matter how big or small
- Identify hidden emotions, whether positive or negative.
- Reflect on what you would like to be different
- Create a different plan if needed to move towards the desired outcome.

Sometimes, this is all that is needed to access the wonderful insight our unconscious and spiritual self can provide us. It also helps to see patterns, or reoccurring thoughts, behavior, and outcomes which suggests there is a hidden jewel waiting to be discovered and released, though it may require a bit more effort to open up to it.

Let the adventure begin. Remember, first thoughts, without judgment let everything that wants to be here, be here, as hard as it can be. Welcome each insight as a treasure, a message in a bottle, if you will, for each emotion pleasant or painful, is just that a message for you to hear, learn from and then let go so that you get to the core or your true self quicker. Any questions, or if you need help, contact us.

The next couple of pages is for you to go wild. Put your favorite music on, or go to 'your' place. Close your eyes and give yourself permission to dream, as you were a child again, and the world is your oyster. Allow whatever to come up be there, no boo hooing, or shutting them back down. All things are to be written here either neatly, messily, in pictures, words. Whichever way you relate to works; there is no wrong in this exercise. The topics are only for prompts and you can add or delete as right for you.

When a 'negative' thing comes up, a criticism, a feeling, uncomfortable, hidden excitement, or you think "I couldn't do that, put these things on the next page. We will have an exercise for them too. You might like to pull out some colored paper, or A3 or bigger, texters, crayons, type it, again, it doesn't matter the mediums you use, it is about allowing your imagination to be unleashed.

Then, to help shift the emotions and memories coming up during this exercise, TAP it out.

The next couple of pages is for you to go wild. Put your favorite music on, or go to 'your' place. Close your eyes and give yourself permission to dream, as you were a child again, and the world is your oyster.

When a 'negative' thing comes up, a criticism, a feeling, uncomfortable, hidden excitement, or you think "I couldn't do that", barriers, conflicts or challenges as you see them, put all of these here. Complete the tapping exercise in page .
